LINES DRAWN FOR PRIMARIES

ATMOSPHERE IS RAPIDLY CLEARING

Approach of Voting Day Brings Lines of Cleavage of the Various Fac- tions into Plain Sight

The political atmosphere surrounding the various Republican candidates for the governorship has been clearing rapidly of late. As the date of the primaries approaches the forces which are really backing the different candidates become more and more apparent. And the result becomes more and more certain. The best political judgment of the state, regardless of preference, now regards the nomination of Johnson as assured.

Alden Anderson is the unfortunate man with the brand of railroad machine candidate indelibly impressed upon him. That has been plain for some time, so plain that it really has not been necessary to "pass the word down the line" among the machine followers. Only a realization of the hopelessness of his candidacy will cause a switch from his support to that of some more likely candidate.

Phil Stanton has much to commend his candidacy, especially as a Southern California man. His early record as a machine man is against him, but his record of the last few years is better. He can be independent if he wants to be, because he has the requisite nerve. Now nobody with a lick of political sense thinks Stanton is the candidate of the machine in the sense of being brought out by the machine. No more is Curry. Each has a large personal following. But either would be acceptable to the machine in preference to Johnson. Either might have been the machine candidate if sufficient strength had been shown.

Stanton's personal following combines two elements. Part of them are men who have always been machine workers and whose sympathies yet lie in that direction. And part are personal friends who have always been machine workers and whose sympathies yet lie in that direction. And part are personal friends who are just as firm believers in good government as any one in the state.

There is plenty of evidence that the Stanton sentiment is being kept alive through the hopeless contest for the express purpose of keeping the good government element from going over to Johnson. Probably seventy-five per cent of the Stanton forces in Los Angeles would go to Johnson in case Stanton were eliminated from the contest.

The situation as to the senatorship leaves much to be desired, from any point of view. Judge Works, the Lin-suit most Republicans and lacks the right suit most Republicans and lacks the right personality to make any very general appeal for support. Meserve is an exceedingly bright man of undoubted personal honesty. But his sympathies are too much in the direction of the machine and its supporting interests. Spalding has been a disappointment in refusing to commit himself on the important and well defined issues. There are plenty of indications that the legislature will choose a senator to suit itself, regardless of the result of the advisory vote.

ASSESSMENT ROLL COMPLETED

After much tribulation and overtime work with the adding machine, Assessor Philip C. Carter, assisted by Roland Adams, has completed the city assessment roll for 1910. The total assessed valuation shown is $1,181,915. Last year's valuation was $1,036,291, showing an increase of $145,624. The city trustees will meet next Monday evening as a board of equalization and there may be some changes in the roll, but the total is not likely to be affected much one way or the other.

W. E. HINSHAW WILL SPEAK

W. E. Hinshaw of Long Beach, candidate for the legislature from this, the sixty-ninth assembly district, will speak at a meeting to be held next Wednesday evening, August 10, in the Town Hall. Mr. Hinshaw has the indorsement of the Lincoln-Roosevelt League and hails from the home town of Harry Barndollar, the incumbent, who is also his opponent for the nomination. It will be worth the while of all republican voters to attend the meeting. Messrs. Gavin W. Craig, Walter A. Lewis, R. D. Wade and J. F. McBean of Los Angeles will also be present and address the meeting.

BOARD OF TRADE MEETING

The August meeting of the Board of Trade will be held next Monday evening at the usual hour. Inasmuch as the Board of Equalization meets in the city hall on that evening, it will be necessary for the Board of Trade to meet in some other room, or hold an outdoor session. But the meeting will not be held far from the usual place so all members should be on hand at the usual hour and join the trekking to whatever meeting place is selected.

CONGREGATIONAL PULPIT SUPPLY

During the absence of Dr. J. M. Campbell, who is on his annual vacation, the pulpit of the First Congregational church will be filled as follows:

August 7 and 14, H. C. Waddell, of Los Angeles.

August 21, Rev. Alexander Hardy, of Redondo Beach.

August 28, Rev. George Morrison, of Pasadena.

Christian Endeavor services will be held at seven-thirty until Rally Sunday, which will be the first Sunday in October.

"THE CHANNEL ISLANDS"

Among the new books recently added to the public library is Prof. Charles Frederick Holder's latest, "The Channel Islands of California." If its delights were generally known the book would speedily become one of the most popular in the California case. Following is an excerpt from the review of the book published recently in The Graphic:

There lives no angler, no sportsman with soul so dead that he feels no responsive thrill when a new book by Professor Holder is announced. The present volume, "The Channel Islands of California," covers a much wider scope than Mr. Holder's other works on angling in Southern California waters, and aside from the chapters on fishing, contains a great deal of interesting and valuable information, such as could emanate only from the pen of one thoroughly familiar with the subject of which he writes.

All of the channel islands are considered—Santa Catalina, San Clemente, San

TALES OF THE TRAIL

Deer are hard to find and still harder to shoot this year, judging by reports from returning hunters in the mountains hereabouts. Little luck is reported this side of the West Fork, but the deer are found to be more numerous in the more remote parts of the range. From the Tejuanga came reports of fair sport. Pine Flats region seems to offer little reward for hunters, while Barley Flats appears to be a little more favorable. Several Sierra Madre people have had a taste of venison brought down from Barley Flats by C. F. Gray on Friday of last week. The editor was not of the fortunate number, wherefore he feels inclined to let loose a tale of the system worked out by Mr. Gray which reduces deer hunting on Barley Flats to simplicity itself, with almost certain results.

To get results by the system referred to, always take a pack burro along when you go to Barley Flats. Drive your burro around the Flats till you spy a deer. Quietly unload the pack. Taking a rope for a lasso, climb on the burro's back and hide yourself close up behind one of the animal's ears where the deer cannot see you. Then drive the burro toward the deer, which you will have no trouble approaching because the Barley Flats deer get on very intimate terms with the Mt. Wilson Hotel burros which are pastured over there each fall. About the time the deer and the burro get ready to rub noses by way of affectionate greeting, you get in your fine work. Carefully drop your lasso over the deer's head. He will probably start to run, so steer your trusty burro on the side of the nearest tree opposite from the deer. Dismount and take a hitch around the tree with the rope, and tie it. Then by chasing the deer round and round you can bring him up close and tie him tight. Having secured him, run back to the scene of your last campfire and get a piece of charcoal. Returning, count three ribs back from the deer's front shoulder, locating the spot where you think the heart ought to be. Maybe it will be in his throat, but not likely. Having located the spot, make a mark with the charcoal large enough for a fair target. Then, siezing your trusty rifle, step back to a distance required by the ethics of a true sportsman who would not be guilty of "potshooting," take careful aim at the charcoal mark, and the buck is yours. Careful observance of all the rules will cause you to avoid several pitfalls of the deer hunter. There is no danger of getting a doe by mistake and there is no chance of a wounded animal getting away unless your bullet chances to cut the rope and release him. Mr. Gray cheerfully recommends these rules to the consideration of all would-be deer hunters.

Fishing is fairly good in the West Fork considering the stage of the water which is very low. Mr. and Mrs. Gray and Mr. and Mrs. Greer Caskey spent the week in the mountains with headquarters at the Sierra Madre Outing Club's cabin. While they found no difficulty in getting enough fish for their needs from day to day they found it necessary to fish for all they caught as there is little competition among the fish this season for places on the hook.

Merton Clark, Reece Stewart and Ike Steinberger have returned from a prolonged stay on Pine Flats. During their stay they saw but one deer, which patiently stood as a mark during the firing of about fourteen shots, none of which bothered him. In view of the scarcity of deer, it was very accomodating of the old buck to pose for target practice.

Just by way of encouragement to local deer hunters, it might be well to mention a gun which H. W. Jackson tells of giving away just before he came to California. With the one weapon he reports having killed fifty-some deer, four bear and about "steen" wild cats. The deer were the big fellows which used to be plentiful in the woods of Minnesota and Wisconsin. He has had other weapons which have done good service of the same kind, but the statistics of the one mentioned should serve to buoy the hopes of some of our discouraged nimrods.

Nicolas, the Coronados, Ancapa, Santa Rosa, Santa Cruz, even the "Lost Islands," whose tops are submerged beneath an ever-complaining sea. Not merely the fishing and hunting, but the economic value, the geology; the fauna, the flora, the prehistoric peoples, the early discoveries and what not are set forth in a manner that makes the reader loth to drop the book till the last page is reached. We shall find well-known friends and familiar stories of angling; once again the author tells of the story of how Jim Gardner followed the tuna to the bottom of the sea and brought it triumphantly to the boat—it had already been brought to gaff, and that is what made the story. Ample space is given to the Tuna Club and its achievements, though we look in vain for the astounding annals of the Porch Club that gave zest to the pages of the volume produced jointly by Professor Holder and Prof. David Starr Jordan.

There will be many who have considered themselves familiar with various of the Channel Islands, who will learn of countless things new and essential when they read this book. The work is really a revelation in this respect. The chapters on San Clement Island are especially valuable. It is to be hoped that those in authority will recognize the importance of making this and certain others of the islands angling preserves.

There are several chapters devoted to the wonderful fishing among the Channel Islands. But after all the chief value of the book is the amazing store of information it contains; and it is conveyed in such an easy, interesting way that the reader does not realize what a storehouse the book is, until he reaches the end and sums it all up.

There is a complete index, one hundred and fifty appropriate illustrations and an appendix containing much information regarding the different varieties of fish, the season and the tackle for catching them, etc. No sportsman's library is complete without a volume of "The Channel Islands of California," and the book will surely take another place as a valuable work of reference.

BETTER HEALTH ERA COMING

California Towns Now Competing for Best Sanitary Conditions

Asked by the health news correspondent for an opinion on press statements to the effect that the passing of Halley's comet had juggled the record of the Stork, the Secretary of the State Board asked permission to sidestep the question on the plea that he would be an unqualified invader in the field of astronomy or astrology. Continuing, he stated: "I will, however, make a prediction based on the observation of data considerably nearer at hand than the stars. This prediction is that there is opening in California an era in which the death rate will progressively decline. This decline will be accompanied by appreciable advances in general influx of capitalists and homeseekers. Grounds for this forecast may be seen in the lively public health interest which is on the increase throughout the state. Of even more significance is the fact that a sharp competition is arising among California towns in the matter of establishing health records.

"The competitive health situation was recently explained as follows by a dealer in real estate who said: 'I used to show them our depot, and our two miles of paved street, and tell them how fine the climate was, and they were satisfied. But nowadays they ask if we've got a septic tank, if the sewers of towns above empty into our water supply, about fly control, and mosquito control, and how about the schools, if children's diseases are stamped out by quarantine or allowed to run. So of course I am working over time on sanitation, because the chances of a commission depend on the amount of goods you can show. Also the less sickness and fewer hard luck stories there are in town the better it is for my business. Then again, we not only have more chance of making deals with those who naturally come our way, but we land a good many who have been scared out of the unhealthy towns.'

Why Philip A. Stanton Should Be Our Governor

Southern California Has Much to Gain by Electing the Man Who Has Done Much for Southern California.

WHY should Philip A. Stanton be the next Governor of California?

Because the people of Southern California are deeply interested in having a governor.

Because Philip A. Stanton is the only Southern California man who seeks nomination at the primary election on August 16.

Because there will arise many occasions during the next four years when the people of the southern counties will need to have a firm and true friend in Sacramento, whose interests are identical with theirs; who knows their needs, and who has had such experience in affairs of state as will enable him to gain their ends.

Because Philip A. Stanton has served the people of Southern California in the legislature for eight years; has been true to their interests, has secured the things they wanted. He has demonstrated his ability, his force and his attachment for Southern California.

Because, if the best interests of Southern California are to be served during the coming session of the legislature, when the re-forming of the assembly, senatorial, congressional and equalization districts of the state is to take place, Philip A. Stanton, with his years of legislative experience to guide him, with his intimate knowledge of California, her people, her resources, her development and her possibilities, with his firmness and his courage, and his force, should be in the Governor's chair.

Because the work that is done then will stand for ten years afterwards, and if any Southern California man can now imagine Southern California as she will be ten years hence, he will know the necessity for having her interests cared for during this critical time.

Because, as Governor, Philip A. Stanton will be in a position to see that Southern California is treated fairly and justly, that when the assembly and senatorial districts are re-formed, Southern California will get the share of representation she is entitled to. That when the equalization districts are re-formed, Southern California will be in no danger of receiving the sort of treatment given her by the present Board of Equalization.

Because Southern California is entitled to the Governorship this time; Northern California has selected the men who have been governor for eight years past, but she has looked to Southern California to elect them, and now she would ask again that Southern California elect another of her selections.

Because the pride of the voters of Southern California is aroused against such injustice to this portion of the state.

Why should Northern California have another Governor this time?

HON. PHILIP A. STANTON.

Don't forget the Board of Trade meeting Monday evening. Bring your booster spirit.

Building operations are going on more merrily just now in Sierra Madre than at any time in the past two years. A run about town will do your eyes good and encourage your booster spirit. There's more on the tapis, too.

Have you been down to your public library yet? There are a lot of good things there for summer reading.

TO PRESERVE THE STREETS

The prospect of tearing up the streets for the purpose of laying gas mains has caused a good many people regrets, in spite of their intense desire for gas. As a result, various plans have been advanced to reduce the disturbing of the paved streets to the minimum. In a few cases it has been suggested that mains might be laid in the parkways. In other cases districts of considerable size could be served from mains laid across private property, provided the company could be secured in its rights, as well as the property owners. The Piedmont company is anxious to do anything possible to prevent unnecessary disturbance of paved streets, says Mr. White, partly as an accommodation to the citizens and partly because of the expense of resurfacing paved streets, which must be met by the company. It is likely that the matter will be brought up for discussion at the meeting of the Board of Trade next Monday evening, when the company will have a representative present. There should be a good attendance so the matter can be given careful consideration.

THE SIMPLE LIFE.

Pleasure in solitude is something beyond the ken of many people. San Clemente Island offers great opportunities for those who are so constituted that they can enjoy it. It is a great sheep ranch, says Prof. Holder in "The Channel Islands of California," eighteen miles as the crow flies. One of the sheepherders is Chinetti, living alone in an immaculately clean shanty, with only the wind and the waves and comic supplements to keep him from being lonely. Professor Holder asked the man if he was not lonely:

"Lonely?" repeated the vaquero. "No, indeed. Why, listen, senor."

The sea was pounding on the long, sandy beach with a deep ominous roar that had never ceased since the universe took form.

"Sometime," he said, "he shake the house; he talk, he growl, he get mad. Then my home—" he continued looking around—"I sweep, I cook, take care of things, I look out for the sheep all day . . . Pleasure! Ah, there is lots of pleasure if you are alone; it is to have a contented mind, eh? . . . Then, I play my guitar to the foxes; yes, and then before I turn in, I read my books. Yes, look at the pictures and laugh. It is a good thing to laugh, senor."

His "books" were the bound adventures of "Willie Westinghouse Smith;" the other the life and adventures of a colored gentleman who was continually applying for a position with the remark, "I seen yo' ad in the paper."

Oh, ye disconsolate! What a lesson in contentment. And who would have dreamed that the horrible colored supplements should at last find a field of real usefulness, limited though it be. It should be added that the library of Chinetti was afterward replenished at Christmas time by Professor Holder, Senator Flint and Gifford Pinchot, and that there were more pictures to laugh at.

Jim Rice, the coach of the Columbia crew, was praising a stalwart freshman. "He's so young and tender," said the coach, "you'd never think he could row. Why they laugh at him at the barber's. As he was getting his hair cut the other day he said to the barber wistfully: 'Do you think I'll have a strong beard? My father has a very strong one.' 'It looks to me,' said the barber, 'as though you took after your mother.'"—Exchange.

Andrew Carnegie at a dinner in Washington said that too many self made men neglect the intellectual side. This sometimes—at a commencement, for example—puts them at a disadvantage. "I know a self-made man who said at a commencement to his nephew, 'Well, Tommy, my son, what do they teach you here?' 'Latin and Greek,' he boy replied, 'and German and algebra.' 'Dear me!' cried the self-made man. 'And what's the algebra for turnip?'"—Ex.

"Honesty, my son," said the millionaire, "is the best policy." "Well, perhaps it is, dad," rejoined the youthful philosopher, "but it strikes me you have done pretty well, nevertheless."—Tit-bits.

MEETS WITH GENERAL APPROVAL

W. O. Welch's candidacy for re-election as County Tax Collector has met with general approval.

This county now ranks among the largest in the country, both as to the number of parcels of land, and as to the number of individual tax payers. To handle this great volume of business requires a person of recognized business ability and one able to comprehend the requirements in advance.

Mr. Welch has proven himself to be eminently fitted for this important office. During the seven and one-half years of his incumbency he has collected and accounted for over $26,000,000.00, every cent of which has been exactly apportioned to the different funds according to the levy made for each.

His efficiency has been repeatedly recognized and has been commended by each Grand Jury. An extract of the report of the Grand Jury filed June 14th, 1910, is as follows:

"The conduct of this office is commended as to efficiency in work performed and system of operation. The increase in the volume of business transacted by this office has been very large, but we find that the Tax Collector has kept pace with the growth of his office in all respects."

Those who favor electing capable men to public office should vote for Mr. Welch's nomination August 16th.

A WISH

My wish for thee? A freedom broad and grand

That, midst the circling cycles, firm shall stand,

Alive to God; to feel and own His sway,
 And moving in His presence, glad obey.

My wish for thee? A sympathy divine
 That with a brother, knows not "mine" and "thine,"

But yields in loving service at this cry
 The silent recognition—"This is I."

My wish for thee? A second, clearer sight

That see, through deepest gloom, the inner light—

The lamp of soul-fire glittering above
 Thy humblest brother—seeing, thou wilt love.

My wish? A joyous, more abundant life

That, welling up within, drowns fear and strife,

And quickens with its vital overflow
 The budding life divine in all below.

My wish for thee! An atmosphere of peace

Where fevered, restless thought shall, conquered, cease;

And aspiration, winged with truth and prayer,

Shall wait thee Godward, freed from earthly care.

Second: That a cement curb be constructed along both sides of said Highland Avenue from the east curb line of Baldwin Avenue on the west to the west curb line of Mountain Trail Avenue on the east, (except along such portions of said street between said intersections where a cement curb has been constructed to the official line and grade and accepted by said City), in accordance with the plans and profiles for such work on file in the office of the City Engineer of said City, and city specifications for the construction of cement curbs on file in the office of the City Clerk of said City, said specifications being numbered 2.

said northerly side of said street where a cement gutter three (3) feet in width has been constructed to the official line and grade and accepted by said City), in accordance with the plans and profiles for such work on file in the office of the City Engineer of said City, and city specifications for the construction of cement gutters on file in the office of the City Clerk of said City, said specifications being numbered 8.

Fourth: That a cement gutter two (2) feet in width be constructed along the southerly side of said Highland Avenue from the east curb line of Baldwin Avenue on the west to the west curb line of Mountain Trail Avenue on the east, (except along such portions of said southerly side of said street where a cement gutter two (2) feet in width has been constructed to the official line and grade and accepted by said City), in accordance with the plans and profiles for such work on file in the office of the City Engineer of said City, and City specifications for the construction of cement gutters on file in the office of the City Clerk of said City, said specifications being numbered 8.

There were several light showers between 2 and 5 a. m. on July 25th, but not sufficient fall to record more than a trace. On the morning of the 3rd of July there was another light shower which precipitated .01 of an inch north of Grand View avenue. The state of the road and gutters on Grand View Avenue indicated that the fall had been heavier at that point and probably south of it.

The average rainfall for July during the past twenty-two years is slightly under one-hundredth of an inch. The heaviest fall occurred in July, 1893, when seven hundredths of an inch was recorded. During fifteen out of twenty two years there was no rainfall to record in July.

AT THE THEATERSBurbank

"Little Johnny Jones," the popular George M. Cohan musical comedy, will be given another week at the Burbank. This production has been one of the big surprises of the season, as the members of the Burbank company were not suspected of the possession of so much remarkable talent for this line of entertainment.

Percy Bronson, always popular in Los Angeles, jumped back into favor as Johnny Jones, and his spirited singing and dancing in the "Yankee Doodle Boy" and "Give My Regards to Broadway" numbers kept the show going at top speed. Miss Marjorie Rambeau displayed another unexpected turn of versatility. Her songs were all encored half a dozen times each, and her winsome manner was never more charmingly displayed than in this rollicking piece.

Another surprise was Peter Lang, the big comedian who also proved to be a singer of unusual attainments.

"So Jack and Tom proposed last night. Which did you accept?" "Why, dear, I was so excited I can't remember. But, whichever calls tonight must be the one."—Spokane Spokesman-Review.
